RESEARCH & TEACHING INTERESTS

Manja Klemenčič researches, teaches, advises and consults in the area of sociology and politics of higher education and international and comparative higher education. Her major research contribution is in the study of student governments and student representation in higher education which is part of her broader research agenda on student agency and the impact of students on higher education. Her research seeks to correct the one-directional study of college impact on students.

Klemenčič has over 70 publications and over 60 keynotes and invited lectures in a broad array of topics in higher education, including student agency and impact, student-centred teaching, internationalization of higher education, academic profession and different aspects of higher education policies and reforms. She has been an invited keynote speaker at major conferences of European academic associations.

Her three staple courses offered at Harvard have repeatedly won Harvard's awards for teaching excellence. Twice, she was voted by the Harvard Yearbook Publications one of the favorite professors by the graduating class ('19 and '20), and, in 2020, she won John R. Marquand Award for Excellence in Advising and Support to Students.

Klemenčič serves as Editor-in-Chief of European Journal of Higher Education, and as Co-editor of the academic book series Understanding Student Experiences in Higher Education published by Bloomsbury. She served as Co-Editor of the section "Mass and Elite Higher Education" in International Encyclopaedia of Higher Education Systems and Institutions published by Springer Nature. She regularly consults international organizations and governments on higher education policies and instruments.
